Attendance at Elks Minstrel Will Help Worthy Cause

THE MINSTREL: This is a little late coming, this item about the annual Elks Minstrel and Revue to be given at the Grand theatre Wednesday and Thursday nights, but I had good reason.

As usual I had to go into my bargaining act—no part, no publicity. And the boys were a bit more stubborn than usual this year. In fact, for a while it appeared that there would be no story in this department and I wish I hadn't been so firm in my stand. But, you know, pride is pride, and I had to stick with what I had started.

But the boys came through at a late hour and I can now write about the minstrel. I'm a little Cuckoo and the act might lay an egg, but again this department is a star in its own right and everything is fine.

I WATCHED the show rehearsal last night and must report that it is as good as ever, and there have been some mighty fine productions staged here by Sam Grogg and his John B. Rogers Producing Co. This is the sixth consecutive year that Sam and Ginger have been in Harrisburg for the show.

Despite my advanced years, I must also report that the high school choruses are wonderful. They not only perform on their feet, but on skates, and with swords and clubs and other implements.

LIBERACE AND GEORGE will be there and so will our best local singers. And there is both high and low comedy—lots of it.

The minstrel, as usual, is uproariously funny and you'll want to see it.

By attending the production, you'll be helping a worthy cause as well as seeing and hearing a fine show. Because all the profits go into crippled children's work. Did you know that during the past five years the local Elks lodge has put $10,000 into aid for crippled children?

Yep, that's right.

Certain time is 8:15 p. m.

Lions to Award SIU Scholarship In Essay Contest

The Harrisburg Lions club has established a one-year scholarship to Southern Illinois university to be awarded to a Harrisburg Township high school student. The winner will be determined in an essay contest.

Establishing of the scholarship has been announced by Lions president Jesse Gibbons. He stated it had received approval of Ellis F. Henson, HTHS principal, and the essay contest would be conducted by the high school English department.

The Lions, it also was announced at Monday night's meeting, will sponsor the building of a shelter house at the town park.

One of the projects of Lions clubs throughout the world is the sponsoring of programs to aid the blind. Two of the better known projects are the Hadley School for the Blind and the Leader Dog School.

To aid these two programs the Harrisburg Lions club will ask fans at the football game Friday night to make a financial contribution. Cheer leaders will pass canisters among the crowd and all money received will be used for the two programs to help the blind, with 50 per cent to the Hadley school and the other 50 per cent to the Leader Dog school.

Three members of the Harrisburg club—President Gibbons, 2nd Vice President Bill Holloman and Secretary Karl L. Wallace—attend of the district convention of Lions clubs at Herrin Wednesday, Oct. 19, and a brief report of the meeting was made to the membership last night.

Eisenhower Takes First Steps Unaided

Walks from Bed
To Easy Chair in His Hospital Room

DENVER — President Eisenhower today took the first steps since he suffered a heart attack Sept. 24.

The President for the first time since his illness took a few unaided steps in his room at Fitzsimons Army hospital.

An easy chair was moved near his bed. The President got out of bed alone and walked with Press Secretary James C. Hagerty described as "one or two steps" to the chair.

He repeated his performance several times.

Confers With McKay

The 10:30 a. m. MST bulletin on Mr. Eisenhower:

"The President's condition continues to progress satisfactorily without complications. After a good night's sleep of about eight hours the President awoke feeling refreshed and in a jovial mood."

"His morning examinations show that his pulse and blood pressure continue to be normal. His cardiogram showed a stable pattern. His prothrombin time is at a satisfactory level."

"This morning, the President stepped unaided from his bed to a nearby easy chair several times. He sat up most of the morning."

Mr. Eisenhower has been sitting up for several days, being lifted from his bed to the chair. Dr. Paul Dudley White, the Boston heart specialist who examined Mr. Eisenhower last weekend, forecast that the chief executive would start walking on a restricted basis this week.

The Chief Executive conferred Monday with Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations.

Mrs. John Skelton Dies at Eldorado

She leaves two children, Drue Skelton, Evansville, Ind., and Mrs. Mildred Ruiz, Oakland, Calif., and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Eldorado funeral home where the body lies in state. Rev. G. C. Spencer, pastor of the Church of God of Eldorado, will officiate and burial will be in the Palestine No. 1 cemetery at Omaha.

Eden Avoids Formal Reply In Parliament on Status Of Margaret's Romance

LONDON — Princess Margaret kept her secret today about whether she intends to marry Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

Prime Minister Anthony Eden avoided a formal reply to a parliamentary question designed to smoke out the status of the romance.

Eden briskly answered a series of questions leading right up to loaded question No. 61 put by Laborite M. P. Marcus Lipton. It asked if the government intended to try to repeal or amend the Royal Marriage Act of 1772.

Eden got to No. 59, toyed with it tantalizingly, laid aside his loose-leaf binder, answered a few supplementary questions on the scope of the Defense Ministry, and then sat down without going to No. 61.

Something like a sigh went through the House of Commons. Question time already had run past its allotted hour, so Eden was perfectly within his rights in dodging an answer to Lipton's query.

Townsend Calls Again

But if he had wanted to answer the question he could have done so easily. Adjustments in the order paper—by which members ask questions of government ministers in Commons—are permissible.

For instance, Eden jumped from questions 52 to question 59 just before he sat down. He could have continued to No. 61, but did not.

Neither did he give any indication of making a spontaneous announcement on his own or on behalf of Princess Margaret, who at almost that very hour was receiving Townsend at Clarence House.

If he wished, Eden still could have delivered a written answer to Lipton's question, but such a written reply was not mandatory.

Townsend turned up at 2:30 p. m. to pay what has come to be his almost daily call on the princess at her royal residence in London.

It would require special legislation if Margaret were to marry Townsend, a divorced man. Elizabeth, as head of the church and defender of the faith, cannot give her consent because Townsend is a divorced man. The 41-year-old group captain was the "innocent" party to the divorce but the Church of England frowns upon the remarriage of a divorced person while his former mate lives.

Salvation Army Nears Goal of $5,000 in Drive

The unofficial goal of $5,000 in the Salvation Army's annual drive for funds appears more as a reality than as a mere hope, as the total reached $4,850.00 this morning. Actual cash collections are $4,150, and $700 of merchandise has been turned in.

"Right now we are most interested in cash contributions," Drive Chairman John W. Biggers announced today. "Our primary interest was cash, since the local Army post has many expenditures which cannot be met by merchandise gifts," he stated.

Harrisburg has already topped last year's cash collections of $2,900. The present total for Harrisburg is $2,950, and Chairman Biggers reported that many sizeable contributions are expected yet.

"I receive several checks by mail each day, and when the Union Locals' donations come in, we should have another $200 or $400," Biggers said.

All persons who have not yet had the opportunity of helping this charity of our community are urged to send their gifts to Atty. John W. Biggers, Box 127, Harrisburg, or call 871 or 302, and they will be picked up.

Following is a list of contributions, $15, or more, which have not been listed before: Alfred James, Lloyd L. Parker, $25; Dr. Frank P. Skaggs, Orval Dean, $20; Woman's Society of Christian Service of Methodist church, $15.

Miley Named High Court Marshal at Vacation Session

CHICAGO — Robert G. Miley, Galatia, has been appointed marshal of the Illinois Supreme Court.

The court met in a vacation session here Monday and named the veteran southern Illinois Republican to succeed Harry G. Newman effectively Nov. 1. Newman died recently.

Chief Justice Harry B. Hershey, Taylorville, said that Miley will withdraw from active participation in politics and resign his present post as state superintendent of parks and memorials.

Miley has headed the Republican County Chairmen's Assn. for three years.

Young Mother Leaves Baby in Plastic Bag, Locked in Auto, While She Works

MONTREAL — Police refused today to prefer charges against a young mother who tied the ankles of her 6-months-old baby, wrapped him in a plastic bag and locked him in an automobile while she went to work.

Detective Lt. Guy Francoeur who investigated the case said it was "more pitiful than criminal." He said the young mother, a 30-year-old office worker, left the baby in the car each day because she could not find a baby sitter.

The mother's name was withheld. She told police she was separated from her husband and had two children, one 4 years old who was kept in a nursing home while she worked and the infant who was "so young and so much trouble that nobody wants to look after him."

"I have money to pay someone to look after him but I just couldn't find help," she said. "And I must keep my job to care for myself and the two children."

Gov't to Buy Pork, Lard, to Bolster Prices

Will Be Used
In School Lunch,
Welfare Programs

WASHINGTON — The government has launched a pork and lard buying venture to give a psychological boost to sagging hog prices and a political lift to Midwestern hog raisers. The pork will be used for school lunches and welfare programs.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson announced late Monday the government will begin buying "as soon as practicable" about 85 million dollars worth of dressed pork and lard to "assist farmers in adjusting their production to market demand."

Administration political strategists hope the action will quiet farmer discontent in the generally Republican Midwest as well as bolster the corn hog market. Farmers say they are in a terrific cost-price squeeze, with receipts out of proportion to what they have to pay for the things they buy.

From Customs Receipts

Funds for the new program will come from customs receipts which can be devoted to price props for the hog industry. The money will buy, roughly, about 170 million pounds of processed pork and about 30 million pounds of lard. The program will extend through Aug. 1956.

The amount of pork and money involved is small compared with the value of the pork industry. The pork amounts only to about one week's slaughter of federally-inspected hog meat. The money is peanuts compared with annual gross income of about four billion dollars for live hogs.

It is doubtful if the pork buying program in itself will have much effect on raising prices at live hog markets. The small amount of money and the amount of pork to be bought probably couldn't do it.

But an Agriculture Department official said the farmers and politicians "will be happier if someone is going on" — if they have something to do something. He said the buying program might have a psychological value in its market effect and "could carry a certain amount of reassurance."

Benson has been under pressure from both politicians and farmers — to do something about the cost-price squeeze and sagging farm income.

Benson said at his news conference Monday "there is no evidence in the cabinet of lack of support for our farm program."

Test Parker No. 2 Well, Set Up Rig To Drill Number 3

The Frank P. Parker No. 2 oil well between Route 45 and Gaskins City was being tested today and the rotary rig was up for drilling the Parker No. 3, just south of Sloan street which leads into the city.

The Cypress formation was fractured in the No. 2 and oil yesterday was flowing into a tank. Size of the well, it was stated, will not be known until the test is completed, probably this afternoon.

E. E. Goad of Deatur is the operator drilling both the No. 2 and No. 3.

Two Youths to Leave for Induction

The Saline County Selective Service Board today announced that two youths will leave in the morning for induction into the armed forces.

Sen. Russell Favors Ohio Gov. Lausche Presidential Candidate

WASHINGTON — The development race for the Democratic presidential nomination took a new turn today when a key southern Democrat came out for Ohio's five-term Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), leader of the southern Democratic bloc in the Senate and the South's own candidate for the presidential nomination at the 1952 convention, told reporters in New York that he has a "great admiration for Lausche," whom he described as a "middle of the road Democrat."

Russell added both Adlai E. Stevenson and New York Gov. Averell Harriman are "too far over to the left" to suit him. But he acknowledged that Stevenson seems to have a slight edge in the race for the nomination at present, because of his previous candidacy.

Lausche, who was also in New York today by apparent coincidence, told newsmen he was "appreciative, of course" of Russell's remarks but "beyond that I have no comment."

Some Eye Johnson
Russell said he personally has "no intention of becoming a candidate in 1956."

His endorsement of Lausche came as other conservative southerners were casting about for a candidate behind whom they can mass their considerable delegate strength at the 1956 Democratic convention.

Some powerful southerners are eyeing Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson as a possible nominee despite his heart attack. These southerners admitted serious reservations, however, about whether Johnson's health would permit him to be a candidate.

Like President Eisenhower, Johnson suffered a heart attack this year—a moderately severe attack which kept him out of the Senate during the final month of Congress. He has since been reported making a good recovery.

Many politicians have assumed

Vavra will discuss aspects of soil conservation. The speaker has been on the SIU faculty since June, 1951, teaching both on-campus and off-campus courses. In addition to teaching, he has been conducting research on subsoiling with fertilizer and the use of nitrogen fertilizer on wheat and corn. He is a native of Union Pier, Mich., and received his bachelor's and master's degrees at Michigan State college, East Lansing. He received his doctorate at Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind., in 1952, specializing in soil chemistry.

$415 Million to Finance 193 Miles Turnpikes

Action Taken
Despite Suit to Prevent Bond Issue

CHICAGO — The Illinois Toll Highway Commission today approved the sale of 415 million dollars in bonds to finance construction of 193 miles of turnpikes in northern Illinois.

The commission accepted a purchase offer from a syndicate of 565 investment houses, described as the largest bond syndicate ever assembled to handle a bond issue.

The contract provides that the underwriters buy the bonds at 98 per cent of par, or 98 cents on the dollar. The bonds will carry an interest rate of 3 3/4 per cent.

Commission members took the action despite a suit filed Monday in a last-ditch attempt to forestall the bond issue. The commission said it hoped to resolve the suit before the date for the actual delivery of the bonds.

James Jamieson of Glore, Forgan and Company, which was co-manager of the underwriting syndicate, said it was the largest bond issue ever offered to the American public.

An unexplained hitch developed this morning, and the Toll Road Commission recessed its meeting until this afternoon, when it was hoped the formal offer would be received.

George McGurn, special assistant attorney general who is assigned to the commission, declined to say what was holding up the submission of a bid. McGurn said, however, that it was not connected with a suit filed Monday which challenged the toll road plans.

Howell Sees No Delay
"These are matters entirely apart from the suit," McGurn said.

James Jamieson of Glore, Forgan & Co., co-manager of the underwriting syndicate, said the job of getting 565 signatures to the offer was one reason it was taking time.

But McGurn conceded that the commission "had anticipated" receiving a bid before the noon recess.

McGurn said the last-minute suit filed against the commission Monday might have some bearing on when the commission could deliver the bonds, if they were sold today. But neither he nor Jamieson would comment on the effect of the suit on the bond sale itself.

Toll Highway Commission Chairman Evan Howell said flatly, however, that "we don't think" the new legal challenge would result in a further delay in the bond sale.

The suit was filed by Edward H. Humrick, Wadsworth.

The suit asked for a writ of mandamus to force the commission to finance three sections of the proposed highway by separate series of revenue bonds, instead of all three in one issue.

Humrick's attorney, Jacob Bloom, said the commission violated the Illinois Toll Road Act when it decided to lump the Tri-State Toll Highway, the North Illinois Toll Highway, and the East-West Toll Highway as routes in a single 193-mile system.

Officers said the passenger car tried to pass another auto on a bridge three miles south of here and crashed into the truck. Both vehicles burst into flames.

Road Blocks Up Ahead

Editorial By Bruce Blossat

The battle lines for the Big Four foreign ministers' meeting at Geneva Oct. 27 are now being drawn. In fact they are being fixed so firmly that a stalemate appears almost inevitable at that conference.

Within the past few days the leaders of the West have decided to give priority to the issue of German unification. This is the one matter the Russians evidently do not wish to discuss realistically.

As has been well aired before, the Kremlin will have no part of a unified Germany attached, as Western Germany now is, to NATO and the allied family of free nations.

The only idea the Big Three diplomats have come up with to make such an arrangement halfway palatable to the Russians is a European security pact to protect all sides from a remilitarized, Western-oriented Germany.

This plan, authored by Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden of Britain, is now being hammered into final shape for Geneva. But everything indicates the Russians will not buy it.

They believe time and circumstance are on their side. Having established diplomatic relations with the Bonn government of Chancellor Adenauer, they think they can deal directly on the unity issue without the intervention of the West.

They do not expect the crusty old chancellor to buckle and give them the kind of unification the Communists want. But they know he must die some time, and they figure his successor might not resist so well the pressures within West Germany for restoration of the full nation.

Perhaps they imagine that even he will find his purpose eroded by time, that he will one day make a deal with the East German Red regime because he has at last realized unity any other way is impossible.

However that may be, the immediate prospect for settlement of the question at Geneva is dark indeed.

The Geneva agenda does have two other major items, disarmament and the improvement of East-West contacts.

Progress of the disarmament efforts recently made under UN auspices does not augur well for this item. Perhaps the foreign ministers can find some way to break the log jam, but it would be a surprise if they did.

East-West contacts already have shown some betterment in the months before and after the "summit" meeting at Geneva. Further improvement surely would be welcomed. But it is exceedingly doubtful that this alone would be enough to allow the world to hail the foreign ministers' meeting as a great triumph.

Once Oct. 27 arrives and the diplomats of East and West get down to cases, they will find themselves hard pressed to keep the heralded "spirit of Geneva" from flagging.

Skeletons in the Closet

Curious operatives of the post-Peron regime in Argentina have been digging into the ex-dictator's effects since he departed Buenos Aires hastily. The findings are astounding.

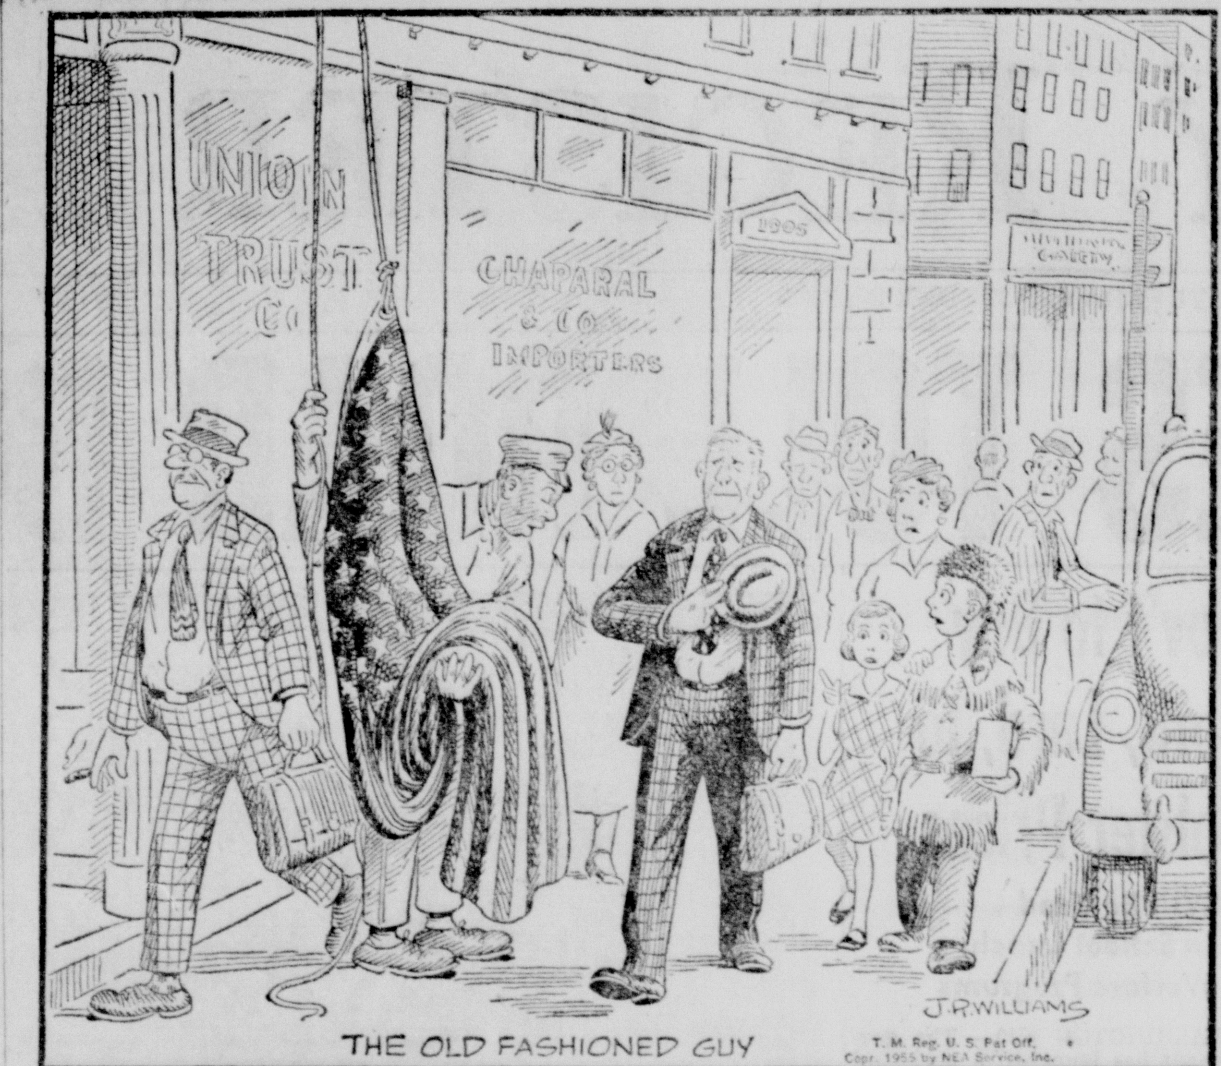

He maintained several dozen apartments. His bountiful wardrobe included 400 suits, 200 pairs of shoes, 40 sports caps to wear with his numerous jaunty sports cars, and so on.

There were ample signs that he paid steady attention to the ladies and indeed lavished jewelry and other finery upon them. He was said to have stashed away jewels galore, and to have held 20 million dollars in "mad money" in a suitcase, ready for immediate departure.

If the new Lonardi government is not making all this up simply to discredit Juan Peron (we must assume they are prepared to offer proof), then it is clear the flamboyant ex-president is the King Farouk of the Western Hemisphere.

One may wonder what impact these disclosures may have on the "shirtless ones" among the Argentine labor force, who were said to have thought of Peron as one of them.

Power corrodes most men. Peron was easier prey than most to its corrosive effects.

THE OLD FASHIONED GUY

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: New England flood damage might have been less; George Allen plays no party favorites; Russian and U. S. housing experts harmonize.

WASHINGTON. — The story of New England flood control is one of tragic postponement, procrastination, and penny-pinching. Back in 1908—19 years ago—congress authorized $300,000,000 to control floods in every New England state except Maine. In the 19 years that have passed, only $60,000,000 has been spent.

Congress authorized the money, then didn't bother to appropriate it. And the army engineers can't spend money that's merely authorized.

It has to be appropriated as well.

If that money had been spent, part of the damage to New England in the two recent floods might have been prevented.

No matter how money is spent on flood control, however, damage can never be completely prevented until New England cities are rebuilt, and houses close to the river replaced with parking lots or public parks. Putnam, Conn., has now asked the army engineers to cooperate in zoning it for future floods, moving factories and houses back from the river and making the river bank a park or parking area where the river can expand without damage.

The army engineers point out that New England is overbuilt around its rivers.

FRIEND OF PRESIDENTS

George Allen, author of the book, "Presidents Who Have Known Me," is a man who can always land on his political feet. He has as many political lives as a cat.

First he was the great friend of Harry Truman, at which time the newspapers called him the "court jester." Today he is the friend of President Eisenhower and is called a "statesman."

He bought the Gettysburg farm in a partnership deal with Ike and is also a partner with Ike in owning a Howard Johnson restaurant in Washington.

George was philosophizing the other day about the political future and remarked:

"The balance of power has shifted. The Democrats may get in in '56."

"They can't nominate a man who isn't my friend," he added.

SPRIT OF GENEVA

Regardless of Ike-advisers' belief that the spirit of Geneva is dead, the National Association of Home Builders has been doing a constructive job of carrying on that spirit in its entertainment of Russian housing experts in the U. S. A.

Though they haven't received as many headlines as the Russian farm delegation, the housing experts have been working just as hard and getting a friendly welcome. More restrained than the Russian farmers, they have concealed their emotions, have concentrated on flooring, wallboards, cinder-block, haven't gone in for either lemonade or vodka.

Once, when turned loose in Macy's department store in New York, they really went on a shopping binge, ended up with $6,000 worth of housing gadgets. Biggest "gadget" was a fully equipped General Electric kitchen.

The home builders have conscientiously tried to give the 10 Russians a cross-section of American housing, from plush Westchester country, N. Y., to medium-priced houses, garden apartments, and Manhattan's unsegregated public housing.

What the Russians are most interested in is insulation, wallboard, wooden shingle siding, asphalt tile floors, and copper plumbing. In Russia, asphalt tile is used only in factories, while copper plumbing doesn't exist. Galvanized iron pipes are used and the water is treated to keep them from rusting.

Like the Russian farm delegation which was headed by the acting minister of agriculture, the Russian housing experts are headed by a cabinet member, Minister of Construction I. K. Kozulisa.

BREAKING IRON CURTAIN

The National Association of Home Builders is doing exactly what I suggested might be done by other groups of Americans in bringing Russians to the United States as a birthday present to a sick president who cannot himself carry on the spirit of Geneva.

The National Security Council meeting in Washington last week took a pessimistic view of future friendly relations with Russia. This does not, however, jibe with the report of U. S. Ambassador Bohlen in Moscow that the Kremlin has gone so far with its peace policy it cannot be reversed without grave repercussions among the Russian people.

This is borne out by the current visit of seven Russian newsmen who arrived in the United States this week, paying their own expenses, in order to break down the Iron Curtain.

"We will do everything we can to meet our American friends and

Scarves Add Individual Flair

Fall's newest clothes seem to cry out from their hangers for scarves. The popular looks—long and lean, knitted, tweedy or elegantly monochromatic—all take kindly to the color, texture and dash of scarves. A dark suit (left) gets an individual touch with two squares. One goes gilet-style, the other floats over one shoulder. The deep neckline (center) takes a ribbon scarf as a satin cuff, for an after-five look. The sweater look (right) is pointed up with a paisley square tied sailor-style. (GlenTex)

Woman's Club Holds Annual Library Benefit Tea at Public Library

The club room of the public library was beautifully decorated with bouquets of fall flowers yesterday afternoon for the library benefit tea sponsored annually by the Harrisburg Woman's club.

Mrs. J. W. Myers was program chairman and opened the informal meeting by welcoming the members and guests present after which she presented Miss Bess Pemberton who gave an impressive devotion which she closed with prayer.

Mrs. Myers then presented Mrs. P. W. Sherman, music teacher, who introduced one of her piano pupils, Miss Paula Reynolds, who played "The Lotus Land" by Scerail Scott.

A talk entitled "Know Your Library" was given by Mrs. E. Bishop Hill who stated that the campaign for a library was begun by the Harrisburg Woman's club in the early years of the present century. A room on the second floor of the Gregg building was donated for their use, and the women gathered what books they could from the people of the town, accomplishing this by book-showers and personal calls, since there were no means of income.

In later years the city council levied a small tax to maintain the library, and since that time the affairs of the library have been in the hands of a board of trustees selected by the city council.

The Woman's club then undertook the difficult job of raising sufficient money to build a suitable library and learned that they could obtain from the Andrew Carnegie Foundation $15,000 for a building if the city would agree to support it. All that was needed was a lot which was deeded to the city by Dr. John Mitchell. On January 21, 1909, the Mitchell Carnegie public library was dedicated to serve the people of this community.

Following Mrs. Hill's talk the guests were served tea, coffee and dainty cookies.

Hostesses were Mrs. C. D. Ludlow and Mrs. W. E. Pankey. On the decorating committee were Mrs. Carl Corrie and Mrs. H. N. Winney, and the tea committee, Mrs. J. J. Klein, Mrs. Harry Barker, Mrs. J. A. Bottomley, Mrs. Harry Woolcott and Mrs. Ralph Brown Sr.

Mrs. Pat Sullivan then entertained the group by singing several selections from the musical "Show Boat," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Dale Sullivan.

Stratton Encourages Feminine Participation in Politics

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (Special)—Feminine participation in Illinois law making appears headed for an increase. Gov. William G. Stratton has urged party leaders throughout the state to encourage more women to run for the state legislature. With more women voters than men, he feels it is good politics to attract female voters to the GOP.

Already he has shown the way by the recent appointment of Mrs. Margaret Hayes, Chicago, widow of the former Edward A. Hayes, former national commander of the American Legion, to membership on the Illinois State Youth Commission. He also can point to his appointment early in his term of Miss Vera Binks, Kewanee, to be director of the department of State Registration and Education.

Thus Stratton is the first governor in the state's history to accord women outstanding recognition in state posts. His selection of Miss Binks, a former Henry county judge, as a department director, made her the first woman to be a member of an Illinois Governor's Cabinet. And a woman, Miss Marion Keever, Coal City, is his executive secretary, first woman to hold the post.

Stratton feels the number of women lawmakers at Springfield should be at least doubled. He says it is not only because women voters in Illinois outnumber the men, but because it is fitting and proper that state government have the benefits of a woman's view. There are now five women members in the Illinois House and two in the Senate.

He feels women lawmakers will be valuable in dealing with school problems, the number and importance of which increase with each succeeding session, and with crime and juvenile delinquency. He said the increased number of districts for the Chicago suburbs, both in the House and in the Senate, presents "a wonderful chance for women." He feels one third of the suburb representation should be women.

The present two women senators, are Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, R., Downers Grove, a house-to raise cattle and has contracted for an original herd of 50 which will be shipped to the Wood farm near Plainfield.

The Speaker has made arrangements with a Central Illinois live-stock man who operates on a big scale with many partners, to enlarge the herd so that eventually it will consist of several hundred cattle. Stratton bought a rugged farm about ten miles from Springfield and has stocked it with more than a hundred cattle. He also uses it for horseback riding for the family along the Sangamon River.

Some 60% of the people in this country, according to a recent survey, didn't know that the New York Stock Exchange does not own the stocks bought and sold on its trading floor. This advertisement is one of a series being published to help broaden understanding of stock ownership. We hope you'll find it informative.

Who are
stock owners?

1. Let's lay a myth to rest. The New York Stock Exchange has never owned a share of any of the stocks traded on its floor. The Exchange is a marketplace where securities are bought and sold.

2. How rich share owners are. Of the nation's 7 1/2 million share owners in publicly owned companies, it is estimated that 31.6% have family incomes of less than $5,000 a year; 44.4% have between $5,000 and $10,000.

3. Men vs. women. Actually, stock ownership is pretty equally divided between the sexes—36.3% of the shares are owned by men, 26.9% are owned by women and 7.5% are in joint accounts. The remaining 29.3% are held by insurance companies, pension funds, etc.

4. Why people invest. It's no secret—they invest in the hope of getting a good return on their money. You can't be sure of a return. But there are many established companies listed on the Exchange that have long records of steady growth and that have paid dividends regularly for years (298 common stocks haven't missed paying one in every year from 25 to 107 years).

5. How you go about buying or selling stocks. The first thing to do is to look up a Member Firm of the Stock Exchange near you. A partner or registered representative in that firm will be glad to give you facts about the stocks listed on the Exchange, and will help you decide on investments suited to your needs. His information and advice are free for the asking.

Before you invest, get the facts. Investing is a serious business. Stock prices can go down as well as up. So, before you put your money into stocks, be sure you have sufficient savings to cushion you and your family against emergencies.

Baby is Injured When Auto Crashes Into Bedroom

PANA, Ill. — A 5-month-old baby was injured Monday when an automobile leaped the curb at the end of a dead-end street and crashed into her bedroom.

The child, Vickie Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Anderson, was cut and bruised and covered with debris when the car shoved her crib to the rear of the house.

Her mother and four-year-old brother were also in the room but escaped serious injury.

Ted Hill, 27, owner of the car, was charged with drunken driving and Arthur E. Forbes, 31, was charged with being intoxicated.

Police said the car occupied by the two men did not slow down as it approached the end of the street, but smashed into the front door of the home and into the bedroom where the girl was asleep in her crib.

The car knocked down two walls of the house.

Senator, Wife Credit Auto Safety Belts for Non-Injury in Crash

FORT DODGE, Iowa — Sen. Thomas Martin (R-Iowa) and his wife credited automobile safety belts today with saving them from death or injury when their car missed a curve near here Monday and overturned.

The car was badly wrecked but the senator and his wife unhooked their safety belts and climbed out without a scratch. Highway patrolmen took them to their destination.

Beware Soviet 'War Of Smiles': Stevenson

CHICAGO — Adlai E. Stevenson has warned the nation to beware of the Soviet "war of smiles."

Addressing a United Nations anniversary meeting Monday, he said "it may well be that we are entering one of the most perilous periods in our history."

At the same time, the 1952 Democratic presidential candidate credited the U. N. with moving further in the direction of peace than in any other decade in history.

Safecrackers Loot Bank at A-Weapons Base

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — The FBI scratched for clues today to identify "expert" safecrackers who staged a daring invasion of a super secret atomic weapons base to loot a branch bank of $47,655 in one of the boldest burglaries in the history of the West.

The FBI said it had "no new leads." State police broadcast a statewide alarm for local authorities to be on the lookout for "anyone with a large sum of money."

The thieves sometime during the weekend entered closely guarded Sandia base, which manufactures the trigger for the atomic bomb, and pried open the door of a rickety barracks converted to serve as a branch for the Bank of New Mexico.

They peeled open the large floor safe located in the back of the building, scattered $4,500 in coins across the floor in a debris of cement and metal chips shaved off the vault door, and cleaned the safe of virtually every bill in it.

Gas Well Fire in Texas Threatens To Destroy Town

HAWKINS, Tex. — A raging gas fire shooting flames 100 feet into the air and roaring like a "dozen tornadoes" threatened to destroy this small east Texas oil town today.

Two different persons reported it appeared the fire was getting worse. Chief of Police Bill Hall, who lives a block from the raging well, said the furor has begun "popping and jarring" his house.

He said it hadn't done that when the fire first started Monday night. Lloyd R. Dowd of the Hawkins Telephone Co. said it appeared the flames were gaining in intensity and that the fire was getting larger at the base.

Four veteran oil well fire fighters arrived from Houston, but their equipment wasn't expected before noon and there was little they could do until the equipment arrived.

The firefighters probably will try to blow the well out with nitrogen, but there was no assurance they would succeed.

Barrett Says He Will Not Run For Governor

CHICAGO — Edward J. Barrett, Cook County clerk, said today he is not seeking the Democratic nomination for governor.

He said he intends to run in 1956 for county clerk, to which office he was appointed when Richard J. Daley vacated the of-

PENNY PILLAR — Bartender Bob Denton kneels beside a solid pillar of British pennies—14,658 of them. They were piled by customers on the bar of a vacation resort in Great Yarmouth, England. The three-foot, six-inch stack of coins, donated during the summer, will be used to aid the physically handicapped.

He said it is his "firm intention to seek election to the office of county clerk in the election of 1956."

Steelworkers Vote For New Vice President

PITTSBURGH — The 1,200,000 member of the CIO United Steelworkers vote today for a new international vice president in an election testing the prestige of USW President David J. McDonald.

Howard R. Hague, McDonald's long-time friend and administrative assistant and handicapped by him for the $25,000-a-year job, is opposing Joseph P. Molony, 48, of Buffalo, director of USW District 4 in New York.

The bitter campaign conducted by backers of the two men sparked one of the first major outbreaks of dissension in the internal affairs of the 19-year-old union, second largest in the CIO.

Dulles to Confer With Marshal Tito on Nov. 6

WASHINGTON — The State Department announced today that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles plans to confer with Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia Nov. 6.

The brief announcement said the meeting will give the two men an opportunity to discuss "problems of current interest."

Dulles also hopes to stop en route to Yugoslavia for an unofficial visit to Vienna on Nov. 5.

Dulles is now in Europe for the Big Four foreign ministers conference beginning Thursday in Geneva, Switzerland. The meeting is scheduled to last about three weeks.

The United States has been carefully watching Yugoslavia's improving relations with Russia. Top Soviet leaders earlier this year went to Yugoslavia to woo Tito.

Only a few weeks ago Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy made a visit to Yugoslavia to survey the situation.

Crack Down on Sale of Drugs To Truck Drivers

CHICAGO — Federal agents began a crackdown in six states today against the sale of stimulating drugs to truck drivers.

George Daughters, head of the Chicago district of the Food and Drug Administration, said the drive is designed to halt the sale of "bennies," "gootballs" and "co-pilots" by gasoline stations, cafes and truck stops.

The drive coincided with the arrest here of Adolph Waitkus, who runs a drugstore in suburban Chicago Heights. FDA inspectors posing as truck drivers said they bought 1,000 tablets from him Oct. 4 without a prescription, and on Oct. 6 bought another 200.

Daughters said three other drug-gists were prosecuted here two weeks ago.

He said the enforcement drive is

Four Women Trampled To Death Fleeing Fire

MANILA, P. I. — Four women were trampled to death and 24 injured Monday when 500 beauty culture school students stampeded from a second floor classroom to escape a nearby fire.

The students, all women, were attending classes on the second floor of a downtown Manila building when fire broke out in a group of nearby stores.

Run by Fire Department

The fire department made a run this morning to 3156 West Church street to a house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robertson and owned by Mrs. Alice Stone. Fire Chief L. G. Martin reported that lint and paper that had accumulated beneath the register of a pipeless furnace caught fire and filled the house with smoke.

under way in Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Illinois and Indiana.

Daughters said there is evidence some truck drivers have lost their lives in accidents because they depended on drugs to keep them awake and drove beyond the normal limits of physical endurance.

He said the drugs can cause convulsions, hallucinations, high blood pressure, fainting spells and hysteria, and should be administered only under a doctor's prescription.

One of the drugs commonly used, Daughters said, is known commercially as racemic amphetamine.

Everywhere Else, But—

Area Kindergarten, Primary Teachers to Meet at Wesley Center

A delegation from Southern Illinois university and Carbondale schools will attend a fall meeting of area primary and kindergarten teachers Friday, Nov. 4, at the Harrisburg Methodist church, according to Dr. Sina M. Mott, kindergarten supervisor at Southern Illinois university school.

Main speaker will be Miss Ellen Olson, chairman of the kindergarten-primary department, Chicago Teachers college. Miss Olson is sponsor of Chicago's student branch of the Association for Childhood Education. She is credited with having played a major role in making kindergartens an integral part of the Illinois public school system.

The dinner meeting will begin at 6:30 p. m., according to Mrs. Liva Otey, Harrisburg, program chairman.

If you're like most people, you have trouble reading printed words crammed into a dark area like this. To read under such conditions is confusing to your eyes, because they're forced to adjust to both brightness and darkness at the same time. The sharp contrast is distracting and unpleasant.

A margin of "surround light" like this makes the same sized type easy to read — and much pleasanter for your eyes. That's why books have margins. That's why Sylvania TV has HALO-LIGHT, the frame of "surround light" that's kinder to your eyes. It gives you TV's only "easy-to-read" picture.

MURDER IN HAITI
by John W. Vandercook

THE STORY: Someone has seriously injured Heitrig, watchman aboard Virgo Sand's yacht, Bertram Lynch and Robert Deane, who have been retained as private detectives by the yacht owner, have called a meeting of passengers and ship's officers in the lounge.

At the next cabin, that of Lily's stepmother, Lynch deigned to nock.

After some vaguely silken rustling, Mrs. Wyndam opened her door. I was puzzled that at such an hour she had not called "Who's it?"

I bowed with all the old-world elegance my uncombed hair and rumpled bathrobe and pajamas would permit.

"We are sorry to disturb you, Mrs. Wyndam. But this is most important. There has been a disturbing occurrence. A member of the crew has been badly hurt."

There is some mystery about it," Mrs. Beth Wyndam treaded us to a sweet and helpless smile. "Oh, what a shame!" But I can't really see what that has to do with me."

It is hard to convey the special quality which Mrs. Wyndam imparted to that tiny word "me."

I shook my head with a kind of infinite, half-witted kindness. "I am afraid we can make no exceptions. Mr. Lynch and I are asking everyone to come downstairs to the lounge. At once. It's most important. You won't have to dress."

Next on the line was Manfred Braun. I tried the knob. No dice. Lynch knocked, waited a moment, then pounded like a Stormtrooper making a midnight arrest. There was a grunt, a shouted: "Wer ist dort?"

After I had announced my name there was a shuffling, the sound of a key turning in the lock, then the sound of the sliding of a bolt. Herr Braun had learned to value his privacy.

The middle-aged, alert-looking but somehow nondescript German was either a good actor or he had been thoroughly asleep.

We told him Braun looked appropriately worried and agreed to do as he was bid.

Reginald Dibble was in bathrobe and Rivera sandals with a soft scarf tied becomingly around his throat. His naturally wavy hair was combed. His smooth cheeks had been lightly powdered. Sand, he said, had called him on the phone and told him what had happened.

The cabin adjoining Dibble's was unoccupied. The next door was locked, but at our knock was promptly opened.

If there are degrees of nothingness, we knew even less about Paul Souhani than about the others. I had the impression, though I would have been hard put to it to say on what I based it, that the rest of the Vittoria's guests, including Sand himself, were almost equally in the dark about him.

Souhani looked to be somewhere in his early fifties, but he was deep-chested and, though his hands were soft and well-tended, he looked strong. By keeping his squarish, somewhat swarthy face fixed in a polite, perpetual half-smile, Souhani succeeded in robbing it of any expression whatsoever. He might have been a priest in mufti. Or a banker. Or a member of some diplomatic mission.

He was in undershirt and trousers. Bits of lather here and there about his face indicated we had caught him in the midst of shaving. With a polite smile he heard our explanations. With the same smile and an assenting bow, he agreed to come to the lounge at once. Not once had Souhani opened his set and smiling lips.

When I swung the door (unlocked) of the cabin of Herr Seigfried Meer, I nearly caught him smack in the rump with it. I regretted that I hadn't.

Siggy, that Nordic god, was doing calisthenics. I white shorts and nothing else. Far from being embarrassed at being caught in that activity, Meer started at once to interrupt him to explain why we had dropped in on him.

We found Sand fully dressed in a faultlessly fitting, sky-blue suit of soft, dove-like flannel. Though the costume was of the dimensions of a tent, I had to concede that the effect was both original and elegant.

When obedient to Lynch's whispered instructions I told him of the assembly I had summoned, I saw Sand's big hands clench once in anger; the instinctive anger of a man who is not accustomed to anyone but himself giving orders. Beneath his mask however, he was badly worried.

Lily Wyndam, in fluffy, high-heeled bedroom slippers and a becoming negligee which would have invited a chest cold on any less war a day, was already on hand. So was Mrs. Wyndam. Dibble was wandering around smoking a cigarette. Meer, looking hideously bright and fit in white trousers and a white shirt open at the collar, and Souhani, dark and correct as usual, were at our heels.

When a sleep-looking steward carrying a dust cloth and wearing a white mess jacket appeared from the direction of the dining room and stopped in open-mouthed astonishment to discover the lounge populous at so improbable an hour, Lynch sent him to fetch Captain Carey and Second Mate de Jongh.

Dr. Lund came in and settled himself with an air of professional detachment in a straight chair. Braun, looking worried and alert, Captain Carey and Mate de Jongh brought up the tail of the procession.

Lynch confronted Carey. "Captain? You have brought us that crew list?"

Michigan Holds Slight Lead in College Ratings

NEW YORK — Michigan, which appears to play only as hard as it must to win, maintained only a slight lead over Maryland and Oklahoma today in the closest college football ratings ever voted by the United Press Board of Coaches.

Only 10 points separated the top three teams in this week's ratings. Michigan was the top choice of 12 of the 35 leading coaches who comprise the United Press rating board. Maryland received 10 first-place votes and Oklahoma nine. This week's voting was so concentrated that a total of only 18 teams were mentioned in the coaches' ballots.

Never before in the six-year history of the United Press ratings were the top three teams so closely bunched, or did so few teams receive votes that there were not even enough to comprise a "second ten."

Gained Considerable Ground
Maryland, which trounced Syracuse 34-13 for its sixth triumph of the season, and Coach Bud Wilkinson's Sooners, who crushed Colorado 56-21 and all but clinched a berth in the Orange Bowl, thus gained considerable ground in their bid to overtake Michigan.

The Wolverines' first-place margin has dwindled from a high of 96 points two weeks ago, to 26 points last week, and to its present six points as they struggled with weak Big Ten opponents.

A comparatively formful week-end left the first six teams the same as the week before, with Navy, UCLA and Michigan State trailing the "big three" in that order. Texas A&M's Southwest Conference leaders were the week's only new team in the top ten, jumping three places to 10th. Notre Dame also advanced three notches to No. 7, while Auburn and Southern California were tied for the eighth ranking.

First Place Votes
Besides the top three teams, Navy, UCLA, Michigan State and Southern California each received one vote for first place.

Last weekend's biggest upset produced the only change in this week's top ten. Duke, beaten 26-7 by Pittsburgh, dropped from the seventh to 14th place, giving Texas A&M an opportunity to join the select group after a 19-7 triumph over Baylor.

West Virginia retained the No. 11 ranking for the second week in a row. Georgia Tech, Texas Christian, Duke and Ohio State filled the next spots in that order, with Pittsburgh, Holy Cross and the Washington Huskies tied for 16th.

NEW YORK — The United Press college football ratings (first place votes and season records in parentheses):

Team	Points
1. Michigan (12) (5-0)	298
2. Maryland (10) (6-0)	292
3. Oklahoma (9) (5-0)	288
4. Navy (1) (5-0)	230
5. UCLA (1) (5-1)	201
6. Michigan State (1) (4-1)	172
7. Notre Dame (4-1)	86
8. (Tie) Auburn (4-0-1)	83
8. Southern Cal. (1) (5-1)	83
10. Texas A&M (5-1)	62
Others: 11. West Virginia, 42; 12. Georgia Tech, 40; 13. Texas Christian, 18; 14. Duke, 10; 15. Ohio State, 8; 16. (Tie), Pittsburgh, Holy Cross and Washington, 4 each.

Bull Dogs Face Tough Wood River In Homecoming Tilt Friday Night

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs, outplayed and beaten for the first time in seven games when they bowed at Herrin, 13 to 0, Friday night, take on a new foe this week in the annual Harrisburg Township high school Homecoming football game. Last previous loss was to Assumption of East St. Louis in 1954.

The new opponent is Wood River, a team that gets most of its opposition in the tough Collinsville-Edwardsville-Alton area of the state. The team has blanketed its last three foes, first taking Alton, 29 to 0, then Gillespie 12 to 0, and last week winning a close one, 2 to 0, from tough Roxana by virtue of a safety.

So Harrisburg will have its hands full Friday night when the Oilers come to town. The Wood River boys use a single-wing formation on offense.

Give Sophomores a Try
Harrisburg Coach Lawrence Caluffetti yesterday afternoon began sizing up his squad in preparation for the Homecoming tilt. He believes that all the boys injured in the Herrin game except Joe Dorris, who broke a hand, will be back in practice although there is doubt about the ability of some of them this week.

With halfbacks Fred McKenzie and Jack Wright still ailing, Caluffetti said his dire need for halfbacks is forcing him to give a couple of sophomores a try at the varsity.

For the Wood River game, a non-conference affair, Caluffetti said he would bring up Donald Biggs and Bob Clark, good ball carriers in frosh-sophomore competition.

"The two boys can go back to the Bull Pups if they don't make the grade," he said. "In the meantime I expect to give Trevor Whiteside, who did a nice job at Herrin, plenty of work on the first string at halfback."

Shifts Linemen
South Seven conference rules prohibit the using of boys in league freshman-sophomore games if they have played in any loop varsity tilts.

Four boys played the entire game against Herrin as the casualty list was large. They were Tony Beal at fullback, Ronnie Williams at center, and Richard Hess and Jay Waite at guards.

Caluffetti was hoping that his two regular tackles who were hurt at Herrin will round into shape as one of his good substitutes, Dick Drue, is now ineligible. If either Ken Price or Everett Evans is unable to play, he said he could possibly move Hess over from guard to tackle and use Lyndell Stacey and Lou Williams at guard along with Waite.

And with Joe Dorris lost, Caluffetti tinkered with the idea of making an end out of Ronnie Williams, center, using Harold Guard as offensive center and Lou Williams plugging the center on defense.

Or, he said, Ronnie might stay at center with either Bill Henshaw or Bennie Fulkerson moving up to the first string end post.

There were a lot of possibilities, he said.

Carrier Mills Grade School Fives Win Two Games at Shawneetown

The Carrier Mills grade school basketball team travelled to Shawneetown Monday night and won two games. In the "B" game Carrier Mills was the winner 35-29 and also took the main contest 81-39.

The victory in the "A" game marked Carrier Mills' third victory in as many starts.

Starting with a zone defense Carrier Mills trailed 14-13 at the quarter. Coach Howard Street's boys then shifted to a pressing defense and raced to victory with quarterly scores totalling 21, 23 and 24 points.

Taborn paced the winners with 26 markers, closely followed by Shaw's 21 and Vanfloy's 19.

The scoring—Carrier Mills, Vanfloy 19, Taborn 26, Shaw 21, Shelton 4, Williams 8, Prather 1 and Pitts 2; Shawneetown, Awalt 7, Smith 7, Wright 4, Hunsaker 16 and Orman 5.

Brownsville plays at Carrier Mills Wednesday evening.

File Second Court Attack On New Use Tax

SPRINGFIELD — A second attack on Illinois' new use tax was on file in Circuit Court today.

The Texas Co., and the Texas Pipe Line Co., Monday filed suit asking that the 2½ per cent tax be thrown out as unconstitutional and that taxes already paid under the law be refunded.

Crane Co., a Chicago plumbing-ware firm, filed the first suit against the controversial tax last week.

The suit filed Monday named State Revenue Director Richard J. Lyons and State Treasurer Warren E. Wright as defendants. The complaint charged the tax violates both the state and federal constitutions because it does not apply equally to all and because it gives the revenue department "illegal" powers.

The average U. S. citizen will eat four more pounds of meat this year than in 1954, according to U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates.

Official Predicts Gov't Will 'Break Through' $10 Billion Farm Loan Ceiling

SPRINGFIELD (UP) — A federal agriculture official Monday predicted growing grain surpluses will soon force the government to "break through" its old 10-billion-dollar ceiling on loans to farmers.

Earl M. Hughes, administrator of the Federal Commodity Stabilization Service, made the forecast at the state conference of county committeemen of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. He said the Commodity Credit Corp. has a "little more" than seven billion dollars now invested in inventories that include 900 million bushels of wheat and 600 million bushels of corn.

The corporation loans money on grain crops to farmers who may take the loan as a government purchase of their crops. This is often done because the loan or support price is higher than the market price.

"We now estimate we are likely to break through our former 10-billion-dollar borrowing ceiling late this year—in November or December," Hughes said.

He said Congress has authorized a new ceiling of 12 billion dollars. "No one can tell about next year but we hope the 12 billion will be enough," he said.

Dr. L. J. Norton, head of the agricultural economics department at the University of Illinois, told the meeting that the grain surpluses probably will lead to still lower prices.

He said grain surpluses result in cheap feed and cheap livestock prices.

"It seems probable," he said, that grain, soybean and hog prices will be lower in 1956 than they have been since 1947.

The low prices will continue, he said, until the huge surpluses are disposed of.

"A return to the prices of the 1930s is not likely, but this doesn't mean we will not get prices which the farmers consider unfavorable," he said.

The low prices will bring a steady stream of "individual adjustments" or bankruptcy to farmers, Norton said.

Air Force Sees No Trouble in Filling Quotas

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Air Force, with re-enlistments rising and enlistment quotas oversubscribed, is increasingly confident that it can avoid the draft.

This optimism, in marked contrast to the ill-concealed gloom of less than a year ago, was expressed this way today by Brig. Gen. Richard H. Carmichael:

"We anticipate no trouble whatsoever in maintaining a voluntary air force with a minimum tour of duty of four years."

Carmichael, 42, a former strategic air division commander, was called back to the Pentagon in the spring of 1954 when slumping re-enlistment rates were causing alarm.

A Texan who graduated from West Point in 1936, Carmichael, was made deputy director of personal procurement and training—the military designation for a small, 10-officer task force which drew the assignment of boosting re-enlistments.

Thus far the task force's efforts have paid off, in terms of money as well as men. Re-enlistments, which hit an all-time low of 22 percent in September, 1954, were up to an overall rate of 49 percent last August.

For the Air Force this increase means potential savings of hundreds of millions of dollars in replacement training costs, not to mention greater combat readiness.

Carmichael said confidently that "as far ahead as I can see we will have no trouble getting enough men."

"We are capable, unless something unforeseen comes up, of maintaining strength through voluntary means," he said.

That "something unforeseen" could be Congressional refusal to extend the draft four years from now, Carmichael frankly admitted that if it were not for the pressure of the draft, the Air Force would not be able to reach a 975,000-man strength, a far larger volunteer force than ever before maintained in peacetime.

AF Apologizes To Senators for Erroneous Report

WASHINGTON (UP) — Two Democratic senators today accepted the Defense Department's apology for erroneously reporting that they requested special plush air transportation from Europe.

Sens. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) and John C. Stennis (D-Miss) said in separate statements that—barring further developments—the highly publicized incident is closed.

Monday night, the department publicly apologized for asserting that the senators requested a special plane to fly them home at a cost of $10,000 from Spain. At the same time the Air Force announced it was cancelling another $10,000 European flight. It did so at the request of Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.), the third senator involved in the controversy.

Alamo is Spanish for "poplar or cottonwood tree."
